

‘Food Industry & Health Sector Collaboration’ event aims to drive sector competitiveness and health outcomes for the Central Coast community

Central Coast Food Alliance was proud to partner with the Greater Cities Commission, University of Newcastle, Central Coast Research Institute and Central Coast Local Area Health to deliver the ‘Food + Health Ecosystem Collaboration’ workshop on Wednesday 27th June 2023.

The event brought together more than 50 people from across the local Food and Beverage Manufacturing and Health Services ecosystems, to explore opportunities to work more collaboratively in order to accelerate innovation which improves health and wellbeing outcomes for our community and bolsters the economic significance of our local Manufacturing and Health sectors.

The workshop fostered dozens of new connections across the diverse network of attendees and sparked innovative thinking which could lead to new collaborative research or innovation projects.

Food and Beverage producers, researchers or health sector organisations working to improve health & wellbeing outcomes, should reach out to Alex Blow, Central Coast Food Alliance Manager to explore how local collaboration could help accelerate or scale their impact.

<https://centralcoastfoodalliance.com.au/2023/06/30/food-industry-health-sector-collaboration-event-aims-to-drive-sector-competitiveness-and-health-outcomes-for-the-central-coast-community/>